Bank Case.

IMPORTANT TO STEAMBOAT PASSENGERS

Suit Against Ex-Collector Joshua F. Bailey.

MME. LUCCA'S BARONS.

Mme. Pauline Lucca having, as she claims, obtained a legal divorce from her former nusband, Baron Adolphe von Radhen, of Berlin, and evidently ng to enjoy undisturbed her present conjuga relations, is now seeking through the courts to put an estoppel to any further litigation by Baron von Radnen in connection with their divorce suit. All the facts of this divorce suit having been published in the Heralb when the case first made its appearance in our courts and reported considerably in detail in the reported subsequent proceedings, it is unnecessary to recite them again the acteurs. It need only be stated now that is 1873 Mme. Lucca obtained a divorce from Baron Von Radnen, the decree being granted by the courts of this State on the ground of alleged adultery. The summons was served on the Baron by publication. Subsequently to the decree he applied to the courts to set aside the judgment, on the ground that the whole proceedings were irregular, and that he got no notice and had no opportunity of defence. The case finally went before the Supreme Court, General Term, which allowed the Baron to amend his detence and Mme. Lucca to lie an additional complaint, but ordered the judgment below to stand meantime, principally on the ground that Mme. Lucca had married again since the granting of the decree. Mme. Lucca then took out an order for the Baron to show cause why he should not be restrained from further litigation, and the arguments on this order were heard yesterday before Judge Donohne in supreme Court, Chambers.

Governor Solomon, as counsel for Baron von Radnen, read an answer which sets forth that after Mme. Lucca came to this country he commenced proceedings against her in the Berlin courts, and before she commenced her action here she was notified to return to Berlin and stand trial for wrongful desertion of her busband or she would be adjudged the guilty party and a divorce would be granted; that she returned for answer, "I married Adolph von Radnen in 1865; I have left him and perseveringly refused to return to him, and I herewith refuse to return, and I never shall return to him, and I submit myself to the consequences of the refusal." On which, in February, 1874, at the expiration of the year allowed her to return to Berlin, she was adjudged the guilty party for desertion, and her hu von Radnen in connection with their divorce suit.

All the facts of this divorce suit having been pub-

Prussia, the custody of the child goes to him when four years old.

Mr. Nash, counsel for the plaintiff, set forth in reply the same facts as to the subsequent decree of divorce obtained by the detendant in Berlin. He said further that since February, 1874, the marriage of either again cannot be bigamy, in law, or adultery. There is consequently nothing further for the defendant to hitgate in this State, and that if the judgment of divorce granted by the courts of this State be upseld, it can do him no harm.

Ex-Governor Solomon agreed that the judgment was not a valid one, but allowed to stand proforma; that there was the custody of the child in question; that if the judgment was upseld, plaintiff could proceed in this State for alimony, and that as long as she persisted in charging defendant with adultery, he should be allowed to come in and defend himself.

BUSINESS IN THE OTHER COURTS.

UNITED STATES CIRCUIT COURT.

An Old Case-A Suit Against ex-Collector

Joshua F. Bailey. The suit of Theodore E. Allen and others against Joshua F. Bailey, formerly Collector of Internal Revenue of the Fourth district of New York, has been heard before Judge Nathaniel Shipman. It was an action against Bailey, as Collector of the district in question, for a distraint made by him in district in question, for a distraint made by him in his official capacity on the property of the plaintiff in the year 1867, for taxes assessed on manufactured tobacco for the months of March, April and May, amounting to the sum of $15,000, by the Assessor of the Fourth district of New Jersey, on a distraint made at the request of the Collector of the Fourth district of New Jersey, where the taxes had been assessed. The only question involved was as to whether an action of trespass could be sustained against Collector Bailey. Thomas Harland for the plaintiff, and John A. Goodlett, United States Assistant District Attorney, for the government. The Judge has reserved his decision.

In the case of C. Caddell, Receiver of the First land, Ira M. Hill, Henry Talmadge and Joseph M. Myers, the pinintiff filed a bill in equity in this district in which he sets forth that the Selma Bank was insolvent in 1867, and remained so since then; that the detendant took from the assets $557, which the receiver was entitled to, and that they refused to turn it over to the receiver. The bill prays that the defendants should be adjudged to give him this amount as receiver. The defendants demurred to the bill on the ground that it did not state a case which entitled the plaintiff to the relief he sought. Yesterday Judge Blatchford allowed the demurrer, stating that the bill set out no ground for relief in equity. It was simply a prayer to receive a sum of money.

The Trial of Callender. The further trial of the case of Charles Callender was resumed yesterday in the United States Circuit Court, room 27, Chambers street, before Judge

Mr. William Fullerton and Mr. Dudley Field ap-

Purdy, United States Assistant District Attorney, peared as counsel for the defence, and Mr. A. H. Purdy, United States Assistant District Attorney, for the government.

Mr. Stephenson, ex-President of the Ocean National Bank, was again called to the stand, and Mr. Fullerton wanted to know from him if the money loaned by the bank to callender would have been paid if the Chicago fire had not occurred. The counsel for the government objected to the question, and Judge Benedict would not allow it to be answered. Mr. Stephenson stated that in 1870 the surplus of the bank amounted to $130,000, with no bad debts charged against it. He further stated that with C. J. Taylor's permission he had used his name to borrow from the bank $11,000, and that he had used John Burnett's name for the same purpose, with a like understanding, to borrow $20,000 from the bank.

Theodore M. Davis, Receiver of the Ocean National Bank, repeated his former testimony in regard to what he termed the worthlessness of the bonds which Callender had given as security for the money he had borrowed from the bank.

During the progress of the case there were tilts between counsel on both sides, and one of the counsel for the defence, Mr. Dudley Field, seemed somewhat surprised at the sudden and unexpected manner in which Judge Benedict silenced him just as he was protesting that certain observations made by counsel for the government were uncalled for and improper.

The further hearing of the case was adjourned till this morning.

Duilding of Terrace Garden, and engaged the plaintims to furnish the trouwork of the same, the price agreed upon being $4,600. Or this $4,000 has been paid, and this suit is brought to recover the balance. The defendant claims that various parts of the work embraced in the specifications were omitted to the value of about $400, and that, in consequence of this omission by the plaintims, he suffered loss in his final settlement with the owner of the building, and for this he counter claims. The plaintims say that where articles are omitted to the value of about $400, and that, in consequence of this omission by the plaintims, he suffered loss in his final where articles are omitted to the value of about $400, and that, in consequence of this omission by the plaintims are omitted it was by direction of the architect, and that their value was fully made up by other articles furnished and not charged for. A large number of personal employed in the construction of the defendant.

The jury rendered a verdict in javor of the plaintims for $400.

MARINE COURT-PART 2. Important to Steamboat Companies and

Their Passengers. Before Judge Joachimsen. hvs. The New Jersey Steam! pany.—The plaintiff on the 17th of July last was a passenger on board the steamboat Drew, belonging to the delendants, running between this city and Albany. He had purchased a ticket for $4, securing a saloon berth. Immediately on going aboard he repaired to his room, No. 33, where he deposited his value; then went below in search of him, locking the door of his room and taking the key with him. Soon after he met a friend, and key with him. Soon after he met a friend, and returned to his stateroom for the purpose of procuring some cigars from his valise. This was missing. He at once reported his loss at the Captain's office, when a search was instituted for the missing valise without success. The company rejused to make good the loss, amounting as claimed, to $100, for the recovery of which the present action was brought. The plaintiff having proved his case a motion was made to dismiss the complaint on the ground that the plaintiff had, by not conforming to the rules and regulations of the company, in giving his valise in charge of the haggage master of the boat, made himself the custodian of his own properly and relieved the company of any liability. Judge Joachimsen denied the motion for a non-suit. The defence then put in a copy of the rules and regulations of the company, a copy of which is conspicuously displayed in every stateroom, to the effect, bearing upon the point in issue, that the company are only responsible for baggage checked with the baggage master of the boat, and that for any baggage lost from the staterooms they are not responsible. The Court ruled on some of the points raised by the defendant's counset that such a valise as that described by the plaintiff and its contents were necessary to his comfort as a traveller, leaving it, however, to the jury to decide on the whole issue. Various authorities and cases in point were cited and submitted. It appeared in evidence that the plaintiff carried his valise in his hand, openly, up the gang way of the boat, across the deck, to the jout of the statrs leading to the staterooms and to his room without challenge on the part of any official of the company, or caution that he should deposit it with the onggage master, or that his own custody of it would be at his own risk. Judge Joachimsen in charging the jury said:—This case on the points of law raised is one of great importance to the community at large and to companies chartered for their own protection and as rule of g returned to his stateroom for the purpose of pro-curing some cigars from his valise. This was miss-

MARINE COURT-PART 5. Alleged False Imprisonment.

Martin Oakley vs. T. H. GENERAL SESSIONS-PART L The Sarner Alleged Perjury Case.

Before Judge Sutherland.

The trial of Julius Sarner, who is charged with perjury, was continued yesterday, and, according to the intimation of counsel, who has a large num-ber of witnesses, it is likely that it will occupy the ber of witnesses, it is likely that it will occupy the attention of the Court for several days.

The principal witness examined yesterday by District Attorney Rollins, was Theodore Harris, an adjuster of losses for insurance companies, and the important feature of his examination was a conversation which he said he had with the defendant in Broadway, when Julius Sarner said:—"Harris, if you will pass that claim I will give you $2,560." He opened his hand; Harris saw greenbacks, but did not count them. He (Harris) responded, "I will never betray a trust."

Henry Wailace, a builder, testified that the entire cost of repairing the building, of which Sarner's premises formed a part, was $2,088.

Henry R. Chandler was examined at great length to show the condition of the defendant's books, and the condensed statement he presented showed that at the time of the fire Sarner had only about $20,000 worth of goods in the store. Simon Wolff and Samuel Corn, the appraisers, testified as to the different qualities of caps.

The case will be resumed this morning.

GENERAL SESSIONS-PART 2.

BROOKLYN COURTS.

In the Supreme Court, Special Term, Mrs. Maria L. Searle sued Elizabeth Armstrong, to recover $2,500, alleged to have been loaned, and also to have cancelled the assignment of two mortgages-alleged to have been fraudulently obtained. A dethe money; but as to the other matter, Judge Barnard held that the assignment must be set Barnard held that the assignment must be set aside, inasmuch as there was no consideration between the two parties, and that it was evident plaintiff did not intend that defendant should have the mortgages while she (plaintiff) was living.

Ex-City Treasurer Cortlandt A. Sprague is sueing the city to recover possession of the property which was assigned to the Comptroller after the discovery of the deficiencies in the Treasurer's Office. Mr. Sprague was acquitted of the charge of embezzlement, but there is also an indictment against him for malfeasance. The civil suit will be tried next Thursday before Judge Barnard in the Supreme Court.

A somewhat singular case was before Judge Neilson, of the City Court. Mary Elizabeth Kleinhaus, a girl of seventeen, applied to have her mother appointed guardian in order to bring suit against ner husband, George Kienhaus, for divorce. Mary's lather is lying at the point of death. Mary and George were married last September only. As one cause of action she alleges that he has attempted to polson her by putting Parts green in her tea. She further claims that in other respects he is not a fit husband.

In accordance with proclamation of Governor Dix a special Oyer and Terminer will be held on June 3 for the trial of the indicted officials and other cases.

BOARD OF EDUCATION.

Superinterment Kiddle's Report for the Month—Three Poor Schools—Useless Teachers To Be Transferred. A meeting of the Board of Education took place at the rooms in Grand street, the President, Mr. Neilson, in the chair. There was a fair attendance of members. The reading of the minutes was dispensed with. Various references to committees

A report was received from Superintendent Kiddle on his monthly visit to the schools. He reports that he visited Grammar Schools Nos. 6, 9, 10, 17, 28, 37, 39. 51, 54, 57, 58 and Primary School ciasses, and in 183 found the instruction excellent, in 121 good, in 20 fair and in 3 indifferent. In the matter of discipline 311 showed good. The three which were bad were primary department, No. 6; male department, No. 37, and primary department, No. 38. The attendance of scholars was 3,481 in excess of last report. The whole absences of teachers was 1,850, or 150 less than last report. In finishing Mr. Kiddle recommends an investigation to be made into the causes of the inefficiency of the schools acove mentioned. He also gave a list of the teachers whose classes had decreased in attendance twenty per cent or more.

W. H. Wilkins sent a communication to the Board of Education notifying it that he had a mortgage amounting to $37,489 40 upon the public schoolhouse in Fordham, and that if not paid within twenty days he would foreclose upon the property. Jeremiah Rogers was appointed a trustee of public school of the Third ward, in place of David Hollis, resigned.

Some amendments were proposed to the bylaws of the Board by the Committee on Bylaws in consequence of the lact that some schools have too many teachers, and the report recommends that these teachers be sent to other schools in other wards where their services may be needed. The report states that there are in the various schools 165 supernumerary teachers who draw salaries without having any deninite work to do. They are divided as follows:—Male schools, 36; jemale, 41; primary department, 76; primary school, 12. The report states that "this is an abuse or the appointing power."

Some discussion ensued hereon, and it was ascertained that none of these teachers reported were those engaged in teaching music, isnguages, or any of the fancy branches, and that those reported were those engaged in teaching music, isnguages, or any of the fancy branches, and the Board of Education reduce their apportionment if possible, the Finance Committee reported that $150,000 of the sum saked for by the committee for new buildings would be dispensed with this year. PEDESTRIANISM.

A Match Against Time from Thirty-eighth Street and Pitth Avenue to Jerome Park-Time the Winner.

On the 6th inst. a wager was made by Mr. Max Bayersdorfer, of No. 14 Chambers street, with Mr. D. McCarthy for 2250 a side, to the effect that the latter could not produce a man who did not make his living by walking, who could walk from the corner of Thirty-eighth street and Fifth avenue to the members' gate, Jerome Park, in 1 hour, 31 minutes and 55 seconds.

In accordance with the terms mentioned above Mr. W. E. Harding was named by Mr. McCarthy as his champion and yesterday morning appointed for the race to take piace, the start to be made at seven obtace.

contest since the match was made, was on hand at the appointed place some fifteen minutes before the hour named for the start. The course was from the north side of Thirty-eighth street, along Pitth avenue to 110th street to St. Nicholas avenue, to 154th street, across Macomb's Dam bridge and along Central avenue to the road turning to Je-rome Park, thence through the lane to the Mem-bers' entrance.

Fifth avenue to 110th street to St. Nicholas avenue, to 15th street, across Macomb's Dam bridge and along Central avenue to the road turning to Jerome Park, thence through the lane to the Members' entrance.

The start.

The weather was all that could be desired for walking, being cool but not chilly, while the sky was clear and bright. Precisely as the clock chimed out the last stroke of seven Mr. Harding, who was dressed in ordinary walking costume, started, going away with a quick although somewhat short stride. After going a few blocks Mr. Harding perceptibly quick-ened his gait, getting over the ground at great speed. Fifty-eighth street was reached in sm. vs. As he struck the level ground across the circle at the Firsh avenue entrance to the Park he put on a fine spurt and was loudly cheered by some hundred or more of people who had assembled at this point. The second mile to Seventy-eighth street was made in sm. 43s. Harding up to this time showed no signs of fatigue, but, it anything, quickened his pace, and shortly after threw off his coat, vest, hat and collar. As the cool morning air seemed to strike him he appeared to freshen up, and went sailing along at a raithing rate until he airrived at about Ninety-fourth street, where the heavy and uneven roadway considerably affected him and militated against his speed. He, however, passed 104th street at 7th. 32m. 13s. or 32m. 17s. from the time of starting. Between this point and 110th street he made good time, nowithstanding that he was brought to a dead stand by a carriage containing the refere getting across the road, causing him to lose ten seconds of time. He turned 110th street at 7th. 35m. 12s., and the orner of Seventh avenue im. 47s. later. The road being him to lose ten seconds of time. He turned 110th street at 7th. 35m. 12s., and the orner of Seventh avenue im. 47s. later. The road being here level and in good walking order, Mr. Harding commenced to put on speed sagan, and appeared to be going as fresh as ever. He passed 12sth street at 7th. 45m
